

INTERNATIONAL GUIDE TO LITERATURE ON MASCULINITY

Diederik F. Janssen, MD (compiler / editor)

Seeking to open up the field of masculinities to a global as well as inter-regional discussion, MSP offers a comprehensive bibliographic index of masculinity related publications across cultures, world regions, and countries up to 2008. Multilingual in scope, it covers English as well as the lionshare of non-English European bodies of literature. The bibliography is multi-disciplinary, ranging widely from representations, anthropology and HISTories, to policy and globalization studies. It is the first bibliography in the men and masculinities field to supply area studies scholars with a comprehensive regional overview of citations, as well as facilitating comparative approaches. Includes sections on world masculinities, globalization, world regions and nations, and world religions.

“A formidable contribution to scholarship on masculinities, documenting the worldwide scope of this field; a guide to research, conceptualization, and policy debates in every continent.”

“This is an indispensable aid for navigating a way through the huge and ever-expanding field of masculinity studies. The Bibliography’s global scope reflects the way in which an interest in men and masculinities has been taken up in different contexts around the world. Janssen is to be congratulated for drawing together so many sources and making them so accessible.”
